

Are "Changing The Guard" At Training Camp Palace

FREQUENT INSPECTIONS MADE AT TRAINING CAMP

An inspection of the Newmarket basic training camp took place on Monday. Inspecting officer was Col. Brock Chisholm, M.C., commandant of the northern area of M.D. 2. Major-General T. B. Anderson, from defence headquarters at Ottawa, inspected the camp two weeks ago.

A week ago Sunday the troops held a parade through Newmarket and Maj.-Gen. E. W. Sanson of the armored corps took the salute at the King George hotel. General Sanson expressed pleasure at the brisk step of the marchers. The tank corps' trumpet band, the 48th Highlanders pipe band, the R.S.A. bugle band and the camp pipe band all took part.

About 350 of the trainees, both active and reserve, having completed their two months basic training, were transferred from the Newmarket camp yesterday. Major B. H. Geary, V.C., second-in-command, informed The Era that their departure was delayed a week.

About 129 new trainees reported at the camp last Thursday, putting the camp population up to about 1,200. When others will come is not known yet.

MARK PARAGRAPH SEND PAPER TO U.S.

Hundreds of Ontario citizens are co-operating with the Ontario tourist bureau to write to their friends in the United States urging Americans to visit Canada this summer.

York county citizens are asked to suggest to Americans that they visit the home county this summer, next week if possible, the first week in July, but at any rate some time this summer.

American tourists not only improve the exchange situation, but take back to the United States encouraging information about Canada's war effort.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales has issued a cordial invitation for all former Newmarket citizens now residing in the U.S.A. to visit the old town this summer.

Davis Employees Volunteer To Spend Holidays On Farm

HARD-PRESSED FARMERS HAVE CHANCE TO GET WEEK'S HELP

A number of the employees of the Davis Leather Co., through their foremen, have signified their willingness to utilize their vacation next week in helping farmers in the vicinity of Newmarket with their haying.

Quite a number of these men gave similar assistance last year and it was appreciated by the farmers who were hard pressed for help to get in the hay.

The labor situation on the farm is even worse this year and farmers who need this temporary help should advise Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn, Newmarket, at once, either at his office or his residence.

CROWDS ENJOY DANCE AND MAIN ST. FROLIC

Newmarket crowded Main St. last night to enjoy the annual carnival, street dance and soap-box derby, sponsored by the Newmarket R.S.A. bugle band. As usual, the soap-box derby provided the cream of the night's crop of entertainment.

Archie Mair thundered down Main St. hill in his "Liberator," a streamlined hack that took four heats out of five and got all the honors. Louis Hill placed first in one heat with his "Thunderbolt," but came a close second in three of the other heats.

After each heat, waves of the town's public school children raced down the pavement to congratulate or condemn their favorites. There were a few spills but no one got hurt.

Hot-dog booths, ice cream stands, and games attracted many from the large crowd. Some danced to selections by Art West's orchestra and some to Carl Black's old-time music on the pavement between Timothy and Water Sts. Members of the band conducted the different games and the proceeds will go to help forward the R.S.A. bugle band work.

Many soldiers, sailors and airmen were among the crowd.

PLAN BLITZ ON BARBERRY AS RUST HOST

FARMERS WILL GATHER FOR "ANTI-BARBERRY" DEMONSTRATION

WILL SAVE GRAIN

"For a good many years many of the farmers of the Newmarket-Bogartown-Pleasantville district have financially suffered in silence from the ravages of the straw or stem rust of grains, particularly in late or wet seasons such as last year," W. M. Cockburn, York county agricultural representative, stated this week. "Last summer the department of agriculture located several bushes of common barberry in this particular district and on making a survey have found specimens of this shrub on several farms between the second and fourth concessions of Whitechurch. Another heavy infestation has been located at Roche's Point and isolated cases throughout the county by the local corn borer inspectors.

"The stem rust spores in the spring migrate from the old infected straw to the common barberry, where it lives and multiplies eight million fold while waiting for the grain to grow. The tiny spores then blow from the orange colored scabs or cluster-cups on the underside of the barberry leaf to the growing grain. Almost overnight a very promising crop often goes down and whether lodged or standing never fills properly.

"The common barberry is a graceful shrub from six to 12 feet high, and in the autumn, winter or spring has prominent drooping clusters of red berries like miniature bunches of grapes." Mr. Cockburn said. "The leaves have saw-tooth edges, might be green or purple and usually have three spines or thorns at the base of the leaves. The Japanese barberry, not a host to rust organism, is the one commonly used for hedges and planting around house foundations. Its leaves, either green or reddish, are smooth-edged, with usually single spines and the berries single or in twos, threes or fours.

"In view of the heavy loss this inflicts on grain crops, the York county agricultural committee has endorsed a campaign to eradicate all the common barberry that can be located. People are warned, except on lawns, not to dig, pull or cut it out, as remaining portions of roots produce a thicker shrub than the original."

Mr. Cockburn has arranged a demonstration on the farm of Leslie Harper, Lot 32, Con. 4, Whitechurch, on Wednesday evening, July 2. All the farmers of the district affected and others interested are asked to gather there at 7:30 p.m., E.S.T., when a number of bushes will be sprayed with a chemical weed killer.

One Newmarket merchant was busy yesterday afternoon destroying a barberry bush on his lawn.

Three Go To Reformatory For Construction Fraud

TWO GET SIX MONTHS, THIRD GETS NINE MONTHS

Norman E. Farr, Cpl. Richard I. Gerrard and Samuel McMillan received reformatory terms in county criminal court in Toronto on Monday for defrauding the federal government during construction of the Newmarket training camp. A conspiracy charge against them was dismissed.

Gerrard and Farr were sentenced to six months definite and three months indefinite, and McMillan, also found guilty of forgery, was given nine months definite and three months indefinite.

DANCE FLOOR HELPS OLD COUNTRY FOLK

When the old boys' reunion organization closed its books a couple of years ago, its principal asset was an outdoor dance floor, built in sections, which cost over $300. This floor the organization turned over to the town, to lie in idleness for a while.

Since the war started it has become worth its weight in gold. The military camp have had the use of the floor in their drill hall since the camp was constructed. A week ago the town lent the floor to the Aurora horse show, thus putting the cost of building another floor, probably $350, into the British war victims' fund. The horse show turned over $1,000 to the fund.

Incidentally, horse show officials had helped the Newmarket old boys' reunion committee.

Then last week the town lent the floor to the T. Eaton Co. for a patriotic garden party at Eaton Hall farm, repaying the courtesy of the company in decorating the Newmarket arena at the time of Newmarket's big war victims' ice show.

"WELL DONE," MAYOR, REEVE TELL CITIZENS

"To the citizens of Newmarket, the workers, the military units and the band, the town bands, Guides, Scouts, Veterans, York Rangers, firemen, to all, both young and old—poor and rich—I say on behalf of the town council, 'Well done,' Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said this week with regard to the great Victory loan success.

"The Victory loan flagpole and flag have been erected as a permanent token of our support of the motherland and the Victory loan of 1941," added Dr. Dales.

"I am keeping the flagpole subscription list open for one more week, as I have been approached by many who would like to contribute to this fund. Send any subscriptions to the Newmarket town clerk. A record of names of all contributors will be kept."

"The Victory loan over-subscription in Newmarket is remarkable, and when you reflect that at the same time people were called upon to pay the first instalment of their taxes, and exceeded last year's total, it is even more remarkable," Reeve Fred A. Lundy told The Era this week.

Six Municipalities Triple Quota, To Reach Extra Million

Newmarket Makes It Nearly Five Times Quota, Asked for $120,000, Subscribes $574,000

Northern York county subscribed nearly double its Victory loan quota.

Total of municipal quotas was $1,000,000 and special names quota was $300,000, making a total quota of $1,300,000. Subscriptions amounted to $2,196,750.

Practically all municipalities went over their quotas, with Newmarket, Aurora, King township, Markham village, Richmond Hill, Stouffville, Woodbridge and Sutton all at least doubling their quotas.

Newmarket exceeded its quota nearly five times, Aurora nearly three times, King township three times, Richmond Hill nearly three times, Stouffville three times, Woodbridge three times.

Prizes for the best decorated homes and places of business go to the following Newmarket citizens: Fred Edwards, 14 Arden Ave., $15; W. L. Bosworth, Huron St., $10; Morrison's Men's Wear, $15; Parson's Fair, $10.

In Sutton a $5 prize goes to Torrens grocery.

Three essays selected from northern York and forwarded for competition with essays from other Ontario school children were written by Eileen Jackson, Danny Bovair and Irene Farren, all of Newmarket.

Newmarket Should Now Fly 16 Victory Pennants

PENNANTS RUN OUT, SO EACH REPRESENTS 100 PER CENT OVER MARK

Newmarket should now be flying 16 Victory Loan pennants to show that the town exceeded its quota by 25 per cent 16 times—but Ottawa has not yet provided enough pennants.

So four blue pennants now fly in the breeze on Newmarket's flagpole telling everyone who passes that Newmarket reached her Victory Loan quota of $120,000 four times over. Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales raised the pennants at a ceremony celebrating "going over the top," which was held at the Office Specialty park on Saturday night.

Because of the absence of advance publicity, few people were at the park. However, the Citizens' band and the town fathers combined in making the ceremony impressive all the same.

"You may feel that you have done your part in helping the motherland," Mayor Dales declared. "I think we have every reason to feel proud of Newmarket, which has so often been called the finest town in the province."

Mayor Dales thanked all those who had helped put Newmarket over the top.

After it had become dark, a magnificent fireworks display was held at the waterworks facing Main St. and could be seen by hundreds of people on Main St. The fireworks were contributed by a prominent citizen.

allies but not in Poland's theoretical war with Russia. Czechoslovakia, also a British ally, was the victim of both German and Polish aggression. And France is fighting on both sides.

It is impossible, if Finland and Rumania fight on the German side, and Russia on the Allied side, to divide into all sheep and all goats. The only thing to do is to remember that all nations have at one time or another been offenders, but that the chief offender of the moment is Germany. All efforts must be concentrated against the Nazi government, which has been ruthless in treatment of its own people, other European peoples, and now has even turned upon its supposed friends and allies.

It is a war to end the fighting. "Cease fire" will give all nations a chance to make good their failures of the past. If they go far enough, this war will have become a "war to end war."

WHAT OTHERS THINK MONETARY REFORM

(The Petrolia Advertiser)

Financial writers and other supporters of an out-moded financial system who are quick to swallow the words as they roll from the lips of some professors in our universities and palm them off on their readers as jewels of wisdom, may find an answer to their arguments in a letter to the Toronto Star by Mr. W. A. J. Case, a frequent correspondent to that journal. Says Mr. Case:

"It often amuses me to read the vague and pontifical utterances of these professors and self-styled 'economists' on the subject of 'inflation.' How indignant they do wax; lash themselves into a white heat; make us shudder with their warnings about the German marks, confederation money, French assignats—one would think they had lived all their lives under the horrors of 'inflation.' In the first place what do they mean by 'inflation?' Is it increased prices? Increase in the volume of dollar bills? Increase in the amount of bank credit? At the time of the discovery of the silver mines in South America England's medium of exchange and legal tender was silver. The metal, of course, was the property of the owners of the mines. All the government did, in the public interest, was to turn this metal into coins, so as to ensure a certain weight and purity, and hand the coins back to the producers to put into circulation. One result of the discovery of the mines was to increase prices, because prices depended upon the respective volumes of commodities and medium. Was this inflation, and if so would any of our professors and 'economists' tell us how it could have been avoided. As a matter of fact this silver stimulated production all over the world.

"Things have changed since then. Gold took the place of silver, and paper the place of gold, and the volume of medium can, of course, now be controlled. The ultimate result of legislation in Canada with regard to our money was the incorporation of the Bank of Canada which owns no gold whatever (as an examination of its weekly statement will show) but has now the exclusive right of printing (through a bank note company) all our money. Now can any of our professors and economists tell us on what basis the bank can now issue paper money so as to balance its budget bearing in mind that they insist in regarding their money as legal promissory notes?

"Of one thing I am sure. The government cannot finance this war out of the comparatively small savings of the wage earners, supplemented by the most drastic personal taxes. The last war they financed through the chartered banks as our huge debt testifies. This time they will have to go to our own bank where they can get unlimited credit without interest. Is this what these professors fear, and if so who instilled that fear into them?"

WHY CONDONE BUNGLING?

(Port Erie Times-Review)

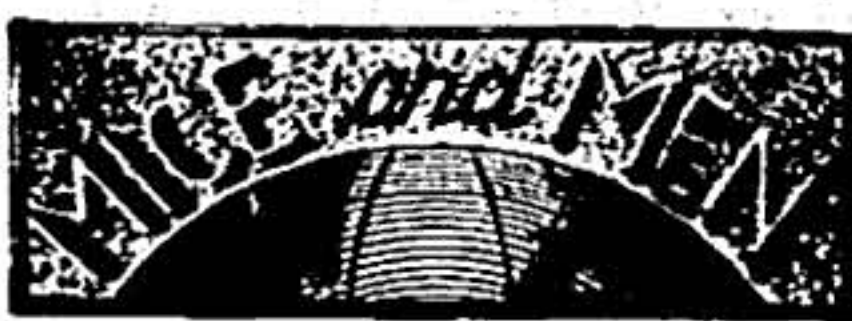

Affirming its faith in "the men who are directing our war effort," the Peterborough Examiner in a recent article chided editors who criticize the government of the day. The article implies that because 100 per cent efficiency cannot be attained in any place, criticism of Canada's war ministry should be withheld unless there are demonstrable reasons for doubting the sincerity, honesty and determination of its members.

The plain inference from the Peterborough Examiner's editorial is that unless a member of the war cabinet is evidently guilty of deception, improbity or irresolution, he is inviolate and above censure—a contention with which many will vehemently disagree.

Surely something more is demanded of a minister of the crown than ordinary sincerity and honesty. Such qualities are expected in those engaged in all occupations—even those which involve little responsibility and less authority. The people of Canada insist on more than those minimum requirements from the men to whom parliament has given autocratic, dictatorial control over the man-power and material resources of this country for the successful prosecution of the war. Having sacrificed so many of their fundamental democratic rights to that end must citizens become inarticulate in the face of ineptitude, bungling and downright plain stupidity on the part of those in high office at Ottawa, who have accepted the responsibility for Canada's destiny?

Does the editorial writer of the Peterborough Examiner believe that the delay in recruiting and arming recruits, followed by the thirty-day military training period was anything but an ill-conceived plan from which little, if anything, of a practical military value could be expected? Does he think the period of training would have been extended had there been no criticism from the press? Does he suggest that the national registration, which was completed last August—just eight months ago—has accomplished, or ever will accomplish, anything commensurate with its cost of more than a million dollars? Is he satisfied, and does he think the people are contented, with Canada's production of airplanes after nearly eighteen months of war? Does he suppose that airplane output would have been stimulated to its present level (inadequate though it is) but for the clamoring of a vocal press?

But why go on? It was painfully evident that for many long months the government interpreted its success at the polls last spring as an overwhelming endorsement of its pre-election performance and policies. These, it should be remembered, were featured by lethargy, inertia and "limited participation" in Britain's struggle. Even now it is none too evident that the government credits its huge majority to the woeful weakness of its opponents rather than as a vote of confidence in the Liberal party.

Germany invaded Russia early Sunday morning without the formality of first declaring war. Russia and Germany are at last trading blows after weeks of manoeuvring. Prime Minister Churchill pledged British aid to Russia because, above all, the Nazis must be "swept away." Whether Germany will attempt an advance to Moscow or control of just the Ukraine, Russia's "bread-basket," is not known.

The United States submarine O-9, with 33 men aboard, sank to the bottom of the Atlantic after going into a deep trial dive on Friday. Built to withstand only the pressure of a 200-foot depth, she was reported as being 402 feet below the surface. Hope of rescuing the trapped men has been given up, since divers cannot reach the submarine at that depth.

Turkey has announced that she is only a neutral observer of the Russian-German conflict, since she has non-aggression pacts with both countries. Finland, too, has proclaimed neutrality, although Hitler said that both Finland and Rumania were helping Germany.

The Communist party of the United States, turning right-about-face, has broken its recent friendly ties with U. S. Nazi conspirators and declared the German attack "an unprovoked criminal attack upon the greatest champion of peace, freedom and national independence."

Both Britain and the United States have promised all possible aid for Russia.

There is some doubt as to Finland's status. Finland says she is neutral, but that Russia is bombing Helsinki. Germany says that Finnish and German troops are advancing from Finland into Russia.

Britain is maintaining her greatest bombing offensive of the war against Germany.

CHIPS COMPLAINS AGAINST THE RISING GENERATION

By RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"Did you speak to Mr. Woody, the Downy Woodpecker, or Mrs.?" asked Merry Chickadee. "Mrs.," replied Young Chips, her mate, briefly.

"What did you say to her?" inquired Merry.

"Well, I said that I wondered if she could speak to that baby of hers who has been making such an appalling din since early this morning, with that shrill 'peep, peep, peep, peep, peep' which he has been indulging in," answered Young Chips.

"I said that my wife and I were worn out these days caring for our own growing family and our nerves couldn't stand it."

"Oh, Chips, surely you could have been a little more tactful than that!" exclaimed Merry reproachfully. "I told you to be very careful how you worded our complaint. What did she say?"

"She was quite indignant, I'm afraid," said the gentleman Chickadee. "She told me that that particular baby was extremely big and strong and very advanced for his age, and was ahead of the other three in her family. Just listen to how loudly and insistently he demands food," she said.

"I told her I had been listening—that that was the trouble. She ignored that thrust and said that she and Woody were busy all the time feeding the babies and that the noisy one kept coming up and sticking his head into the opening of the nest in that dead maple tree. She added that she was even worried that he might fall out of the hole—the nest is about 70 feet up in the tree, only a foot from the top, you know. I thought to myself that it would be a good riddance."

"Now, now, that's going too far," remonstrated Mrs. Chickadee. "I only wanted her to ask him to lower his voice. It's so high-pitched."

"She told me quite emphatically that she wouldn't dream of interfering with his attempts at self-expression," Young Chips said.

"Why, she even said he was learning their regular Downy Woodpecker call—that descending series of notes—and I must admit that when I stopped to listen, every once in a while the young one did give that call, or a very good attempt at it."

"Why, that is quite clever of him, isn't it?" burst out Merry, in spite of herself.

"I suppose so," answered her mate. "Anyway, I did what I could, but I hear him peeping away as loudly as ever right this minute."

"I heard Mr. American Redstart singing just now," said Merry. "They must have a nest right nearby, too."

"Yes, as a matter of fact, the tree in which their nest is built is only about six feet away from the Woodpeckers' tree," Young Chips told her.

"How do you know, did you see it?" asked Merry.

"Yes, while I was talking to Mrs. Woody I noticed it," her mate replied. "It's a tiny little nest, woven around three or four small branches forming the crotch of a little maple tree, about 20 feet from the ground."

"I've always considered the Redstarts a very nice couple," said Merry.

"Mrs. Redstart is sitting on her eggs these days," Young Chips told Merry. "She confided to me that she has five lovely grayish white eggs, spotted with brown at the large end."

"I asked her how she stood the noise the young Downy made and she admitted it was a bit monotonous," Young Chips went on. "And while I was talking to her Mr. Redstart came over to the nest and fed her a tasty mouthful of insects. Very thoughtful of him, I thought."

"Yes, it certainly is a nice custom," murmured Merry. "He's a handsome husband, too, isn't he? I caught a glimpse of his black and orange and white coloring this morning."

"Oh, very, if you like the flashy type," said Young Chips. "His wife's a plain little brownish and gray lady. You scarcely notice the touches of yellow on her wings and tail unless you look closely."

"I often think how nice it is, and what a lot of embarrassment it saves, that we Chickadees, male and female, look alike," remarked Merry complacently. "There can't be any jealousy or hard feeling about looks in our family."

"Oh, I don't know," Young Chips answered. "I don't think it hurts to have the male the good-looking one of the family."

The Common Round

PARADES

By Isabel Inglis Colville

In parades, as in everything else, there are fashions, and a parade of today, meeting a parade of long ago, would have little in common.

To my childish eyes, the parades of long ago were colorful and magnificent affairs—events to be looked forward to, enjoyed and held in pleasant remembrance, but a child of today, seeing that same parade, would be bored stiff.

The children of today are brought up on highly mechanized, or fairly tale brought to life parades, and spectacles.

Yet I doubt if they extract any more enjoyment from their super parades than we did from our more lowly ones. I read, not long ago, that the great circuses were selling their splendid war horses that the cages would be motorized. To me, that spelled tragedy, for to see a sort of superman handling the reins that controlled eight lovely dappled grey horses, was one of the joys of my childhood. I saw the driver through a sort of haze of glory—no doubt he was dirty and tired and earning his living in a hard way, but he shone as a star in my childish sky.

Today's parade leaves nothing to the imagination—everything is worked out in perfect detail, and, like our music, opera and lectures over the radio—it is all before you.

The old parades went past so slowly that your imagination had a fine chance to work. "What," you asked yourself, "would it be like to sit in a lion's cage, or allow a large and no doubt well-drugged python to cling lovingly about your neck?"

You shivered with a sort of vicarious pride, just to think there were people who COULD do these things. No doubt the elephants still amble along, ears flapping and trunks twined round their forerunner's tail, and the always rather moth-eaten camels still look down their noses disdainfully—but even they have acquired a supercilious air, as if to say "we are moderns—look at our outfit!"

Even the Orange walk has gone modern—succumb to a motor age.

I'm sure this generation of white horses must have heard from their forebears of their former glories, when they went proudly forth to carry the be-plumed King Williams of former days. But though the style of parades may change, some things remain the same, and strangely enough, in this day of mad music, the music of parades shows little of the modern trend. Organ music still walks to the same tunes that lured their grandfathers and great grandfathers from farm and town and city to celebrate their day of days.

And no doubt the circus bands still play the same very fast, sharply defined music as of yore—music that so closely follows the performer's actions that I used to think I'd kept time to it, until I learned differently.

All this passed like a panorama through my mind as I watched the Victory Loan parade go through Newmarket on Saturday.

The music was there—the stirring marches that have long roused men to patriotic fervor; that have helped weary men to march a little farther, and have been heard in every victory celebration from time immemorial. But apart from the music, such a parade as that was wholly modern—and somehow terrifying.

It brought home to us Britain's need, Canada's need, the Empire's need, as no amount of talking could have done.

Those floats on their grim carriages, showed us WHAT we are fighting to preserve and why we must put aside our self-indulgent eye shutting to the need for haste.

We have all heard that a drowning person sees his past life flash before him as his danger grows greater. WE, in those floats, saw the life of our nation flash past, as the danger to our Empire grows.

Many a drowning person has been saved by prompt action—we can help save the Empire by a like promptness in giving—LENDING money, giving time, giving prayer, giving work—in short our best. Those floats can spell victory if we read their lesson aright—can give aid and comfort and assurance to those on whom the greatest burden of defence falls; and make us feel that we, too, are laying a foundation stone in the new order.

"COURAGE AND PATENCE" IS WATCHWORD OF WAR-WEARY BRITISH MEN AND WOMEN

(Written specially for The Newmarket Era and Midland Free Press Herald by Margaret Butcher, English novelist and journalist.)

I met my boss on the stairs this morning. A nice woman, but she was feeling Monday-ish. One so often feels Monday-ish nowadays. There are lots of Mondays in a week. Perhaps that's the best way to describe it. You know: back to the same faces, the same old round—and one can get rather tired of faces, even with the best will in the world. And nowadays there doesn't seem to be any getting away from them.

Along comes fire-watching night (when one really ought to be at home and in bed, miles away) and there are the Faces again. You shut yourself away in one of the offices and—if it's your lucky night—get a bit of sleep; you tumble out of the bumpy concave bed and go to the bathroom to get a cat-tick of a wash . . . to find the Faces cluttering up the place; and you know that you've got to go on looking at them for the rest of the day.

And if that isn't the quintessence of Mondayishness—well, what is?

My boss sighed. "I feel awful!" she said. "You know, I was almost in tears this morning. And I was talking to a man who said, 'You must have courage and patience.' I know he's right."

"Of course he is," I agreed. "It's the only sort of show we can put up when we feel like this. I believe it would be easier to make a sudden spurt of courage, in a way." And that time she agreed with me. Then I told her what I think: that when one feels this everlasting Monday, the best thing is to sit at one's desk, work hard and say nothing at all. If folk don't speak they can't say the wrong thing.

"You help me a lot, you know," I said—and she does. She is not only nice, but she looks nice. Her hair is carefully done; she doesn't always turn up in the same clothes. She speaks pleasantly—even if she has to say something not too pleasant—and she's human. It heartened her to think that she was helping somebody else along, and she smiled.

"We shall get through this patch, of course," she said. "But when I look round at the lovely fields and think it—it all gets me down for a moment. You understand?"

I did. Spring here: summer coming . . . and it's all one vast Monday. But as she went up the stairs I called out:

"Don't let's forget 'C' and 'P'!"

OUR PRIVATE MOTTO

So that's our private motto now; and not a bad one. We have only to look across the room at each other and it's like a shout. Privately, it's my belief that we're all just getting our second wind. All puffed and cross at the moment, but it will pass. One is sorry for the Young Things, though; but I don't worry over them. They'll grasp the C-and-P idea in less than no time. After all, it's so much easier for me than it is for them. I've had grand times, and I've accumulated enough dogged philosophy to expect some more; but kids can't feel that way about it. They just feel cheated. I imagine, down underneath, there's a mistake about that. Life goes on pulsing away beneath their skins.

And that reminds me of a little anecdote I heard last week. That stubborn Something which goes on and on—and not only in the young folks. The teller of the story was a man I used to know some years ago; the son of a well-known writer. He lives in London—that sorely punished but unpunishable city—and he saw five men with pneumatic drills working on a road during a bad blitz. Bombs were falling all round, and a fire was blazing not far away; and the steady noise of the drills never stopped, for they were trying to get at a broken gas-main. Bombs fell nearer; men were knocked out, but as one went down he would be carried quickly away and another stepped forward into his place. No delay, no fuss. They minded that man.

"And they were all whiskey old chaps," said my friend. "No hot young blood there. Just cold determination to get the job done. Grand old grandpas!"

QUEER STREAK OF HUMOR

The newspaper man also told me a story, this time with a queer streak of humor in it. An old fellow who works at his office-building came along the other morning looking peevish and flustered. It transpired, upon questioning, that a 1,250 lb. time bomb had been dropped in his back garden, and he and the neighbors had been engaged in watching the squad dig it out and cart it away to Hackney Marshes. As the lorry was bumped off, it seems, the crowd raised loud cheers.

"Well, you were lucky it didn't explode, if you ask me," observed the newspaper man.

"I know," replied the old chap a little testily. "But what a hole it's made! Ruined the best bed of lettuce and carrots you could ever hope to see!"

"That's something I can begin to understand, too. I was almost in tears myself yesterday, for I went across to the allotment—having been away from it for two days, owing to the two baby marrow plants, two brown and dead sprouts. A bitter frost in the night had slain them. I sat down on the mound, utterly crushed; and along came the gardening partner. In face of his six feet of bluff masculinity I tried to cheer up, fearing harsh rebuke.

"I was only just mourning the marrows," I explained. "They're dead." His face clouded and he sat down beside me. "I know," he said. "I saw it yesterday and it depressed me for the whole evening."

TRAGEDY IN MINIATURE

Crazy, isn't it. But I think one puts so much into this allotment business; so much hard work and hope. The little sprouting things seem so brave and jolly, and it's like a tragedy in miniature when they perish. Anyway, my respect for the gardening partner increased marvellously in those few seconds of mutual grief.

How odd this account of our lives must seem to you over there! Perhaps war seems a long way off—as it once did to us. In that distant and almost mythical time of four or five years ago we used to hear about wars: news on the radio, perhaps about China. Then about some corner of Europe; and still it was almost as distant as the moon. One felt sorry for the folk concerned, of course, but in a detached kind of way. (Perhaps we even had a suspicion that, bad as it was, they didn't feel quite so intensely as we might feel if it happened to us. But that was one thing of which we just couldn't happen, of course. These were the things which—like crimes in the newspapers—always happened to other people.)

And it has happened to us, strange though it seems; and pain and discomfort and grief (and that Mondayishness for the luckier ones) have come right home. It's an extraordinary experience. We shall never get that moon-folk feeling again. I'm sure. How could we? Of course, there are still a few people, even over here, who kid themselves along, but they're liable to wake up any day. Just a few who help themselves to somebody else's butter and then sit in a comfortable chair and tell the world how they'd run this old war—they know the type. The intolerant speculate happily on what may happen to them before long; the tolerant regard them as a minor scourge inseparable from all human communities and go out to do a bit of digging to work it off.

LUDICROUS INCONGRUITY

The other night, on fire-duty, I went out into the garden during an alert, just to have a look round and make sure that no chink of light was showing anywhere. It was a beautiful night and the sky was thick with stars. I could hear planes droning overhead, and I stared, upwards, expecting their shapes to blot out the starlight for a moment. Great beams of searchlights crawled across the sky; I could hear distant booms, and, in the intervals, the voices of wardens talking quietly near at hand. I stood on the steps of the ugly Victorian villa which is now our headquarters, and I marvelled at the incongruousness of it all; that house built for smug security—and now filled with typewriters and bustle all day, and fire-watchers all night.

There was nothing Mondayish about that, believe me. It was one of those sharp, half-ironical, half-ludicrous impressions which remain as long as anything can be remembered. The iron gate and the Victorian hedge outlined in black against the paler shade of the road; the pointed fir-trees—and above them those beams of light and those zooming machines trailing across the quiet of the night.

And somewhere there were people standing up to it all with incredible courage and patience. Little ants of humans performing miracles of endurance and bravery not so many miles away; and this great lump of rock and earth spinning round toward the light—and another Monday.

So perhaps we're quite wrong, after all, to feel like that about another new day. It's never quite like yesterday; not when you look at it like that. Is it?

DECREASED DISCOUNT SEEMS MORE POPULAR

Newmarket citizens had dug down so deeply in their pockets to contribute to many and varied war appeals that it seemed there might be little left to pay 1941 taxes. However, when the deadline for securing a one per cent discount on the first instalment of taxes was reached on June 15, about 55 per cent of the taxes levied on town citizens this year had been paid. N. L. Mathews, K.C., town treasurer, informed The Era this week.

"Most of those who could took advantage of the one per cent discount," Mr. Mathews said. By June 15, $60,527.30 had been paid. This was in comparison with $58,698.39 paid by the same time last year when a two per cent discount was allowed and when the tax rate was a half mill higher.

Mr. Mathews said he thought it was better to allow only a one per cent discount since, this year, it enabled the town council to lop a half mill off 1940's 41-mill tax rate. "The town has saved approximately $1,000 by it," he stated, "and the tax bills are getting paid faster."

Confidentially

"Did you tell her that what you said was in strict confidence?"

"No; I didn't want her to think it was important enough to repeat."

POLICE COURT

CHARGE CONSTABLE IN CIVVIES BROKE LAW

"I am fining you $25 and costs of $12 for permitting drunkenness," Magistrate J. C. M. German told Mrs. Richard Thompson, Newmarket, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday. Mrs. Thompson had pleaded not guilty to the charge of permitting drunkenness as well as to a second charge, that of keeping liquor for sale. The latter charge was dismissed.

According to the evidence of James Ritchie, Holt, he and his wife, Mrs. Anne Ritchie, made a trip to Newmarket on June 5. They visited the home of Mrs. Thompson on Prospect St., where they purchased some beer.

In answer to questions of Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C., the witness stated that he had had nothing to drink before entering the defendant's house. "When we went there, there was just Mrs. Thompson," he stated. "I asked her if she had anything to drink. She went down to the cellar and brought up two quart bottles of beer. I gave her 40 cents a bottle for them."

"What happened after that?" asked the crown.

"We had seven or eight quarts more," replied the witness. "I paid the same price for them. Mrs. Thompson had a drink with us." Mr. Ritchie stated that Mrs. Thompson gave him some money and sent him to purchase some sausages for the dinner.

"What condition was your wife in when you left?" asked the crown.

"She was feeling pretty good. She was under the influence of liquor. She was in no condition to go out."

"What was your condition?" "I was not under the influence. It takes quite a lot to intoxicate me."

Mr. Ritchie told his wife that the police picked up his wife on Huron St. and put her in jail. Upon cross-examination by defence counsel, Kenneth Silver, the witness gave his reason for coming to town so early in the morning that he was on his way to Toronto "to enlist with the engineers."

"I had a little business to do in town," he stated.

"That was evident," commented Mr. Silver.

Asked if he and his wife got their dinner grills from Mrs. Thompson that day, the witness said they did. He also denied that Mr. Thompson sold him or his wife any beer.

Asked to give her story, Mrs. Ritchie stated she saw her husband pay Mrs. Thompson for the beer. She said that she did not remember anything from the time that she was helping the defendant get dinner until she was in the police station.

"On June 5, at two o'clock, as the result of a telephone call, I went to Huron St., where I picked up Mrs. Ritchie," testified Chief Constable James Sloss. "Later I went with a search warrant to Mrs. Thompson's house on Prospect." The officer said that he found some bottles of beer and a case of empties in the cellar. He added that after he had given the defendant the usual warning, he questioned her. At first she told him that the previous witnesses had not been at her home that day. Later she admitted they had.

Chief Sloss agreed with the defence that Mrs. Ritchie must have gotten from Mrs. Thompson's home to Huron St. about one quarter of a mile in about 15 minutes. He said that she had been intoxicated but that her husband was not. He appeared as if he had been drinking.

In her defence Mrs. Thompson denied that she had sold beer to the two witnesses. Asked how long she had known Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, she stated "nine long years."

The crown advised his witness that the police had been called to the defendant's home on another occasion.

Charges of keeping beer for sale and of permitting drunkenness against the defendant's husband were dismissed.

Mrs. Annie Ritchie, against whom a charge of drunkenness was laid and who had spent five days in jail already, was given a suspended sentence.

Because the motorist to whom he wanted "to give a taste of his own medicine" for crowding him off the highway turned out to be a police officer in civilian dress, Charles Kreutzer, owner and driver of the Oxford Coal Co. car, was found guilty of careless driving and fined $5 and costs of $5.00.

"On June 9, about 8 p.m., near the city, I was driving up a hill behind a car with a trailer," testified Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson. "The Oxford Coal Co. car attempted to pass us on the hill. In order to avoid another car approaching, this car had to cut in front of me." Asked by the crown how wide the road is at that place, the officer said that it was a 20-foot road.

In his defence, Mr. Kreutzer stated that the officer had driven against the red lights a couple of blocks before, when he (Mr. Kreutzer) had to make a left-hand turn in order to avoid an accident. "I thought I'd give him a taste of his own medicine," he stated.

"You wanted to crowd him off the road to give him a taste of his own medicine?" questioned the crown.

The defendant stated that he didn't know that Constable Ferguson was a police officer and thought that he had plenty of room to pass.

"You had no right to crowd a civilian off the road," commented his worship.

"I'll see that the officer has to come to Toronto police court to answer his charge," stated Mr. Kreutzer.

Pleading guilty to having liquor in an illegal place, Geert Cats, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs. Constable Aubrey Fleury testified that on June 7, he and Constable Robert Windsor came upon the Cats car at Musselsham's Lake, in which they found a partly consumed bottle of liquor. He said that Mr. Cats admitted ownership of the car and liquor.

Magistrate German dismissed a careless driving charge against Lloyd Tomlinson, Toronto. Garfield Hicks, driver of a truck which towed a broom used to sweep the highway, told his witness that on June 9, on the fourth concession of King, the defendant's car ran into the back of his truck, wrecking the broom and doing some damage to the body of the truck.

Kenneth Oshourne, Toronto, who worked the broom part of the tow-truck, testified that there was a considerable amount of dust raised by the sweeping and that he did not think that the defendant was able to see the truck.

"I was coming down the hill at about 45 miles an hour," stated Mr. Tomlinson. "I saw what I thought was smoke coming across the highway. I thought it was a fire at the side of the road. As I came on I saw it was dust and put on my brakes. I couldn't help but crash. It was just dark enough for lights to be on. There was no light on the truck."

For failing to notify the department of his purchase and ownership of a car, Sherwood Catherwood, Uxbridge, was fined $10 and costs.

His worship dismissed two charges of fraud against James R. Fowler, Cannington, and advised the complainants, Fred N. Henchley and Clarence W. Bodley, both of Pefferlaw, that the matter was one for the civil court. Mr. Fowler was charged with giving the former a cheque for $25 and the latter a cheque for $36 for which there was not enough money in the bank to back them. The defendant said that the complainants owed him some money.

Mr. Fowler admitted signing a cheque for $250 and giving it to Norman J. Sedore, Newmarket, and receiving meat and cash in exchange. He promised to make restitution and said that he had been out of work and had a family in Montreal to keep.

"I am remanding you for judgment on your own bail of $500 to appear in court on Aug. 26 for sentence," stated his worship. The defendant is to make restitution to Mr. Sedore in the meantime and also settle accounts with the other two complainants.

Pleading guilty to having liquor in his car at Wilcox Lake, Theodore E. Howlett, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs. Constable Ronald Watt stated that he found the defendant drinking in his car.

In a preliminary hearing into a charge of breaking and entering the Red Indian Service Station at Sutton, Mickey Metruinitz, Toronto, was allowed property bail of $1,000. The case was sent to a higher court to be tried.

Edward Ward Gilbert, proprietor of the garage, told his worship that he had locked the station at 11 p.m. on June 8 and when he returned at about 7 a.m. on June 9, he found evidence that the premises had been broken into. He said that about $25 in tires, 30 quarts of oil, and mechanic's tools valued at between $175 and $200 were missing.

Ross Edwards, mechanic, employed by the last witness, testified that he could identify the pliers, hammer and coat exhibited as his. His initials were on the hammer and there were identifying marks on the other articles.

"On June 14 at 2.20 a.m., I received information that there was a car parked on the road near Queensville," testified Constable Joseph Jardine. "I found the car, it bore the license number 5-A-451. The first thing I noticed was that the license plates were covered with a rag. In the car I found the coat and tools. The coat was lying on the back seat and the tools were under the front seat." The officer said that he checked the license and found the car to be owned by Mickey Metruinitz, Toronto.

Bainey Shapiro, Toronto, was fined $15 and costs for speeding on Yonge St. Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson stated that on June 8, in King, when traffic was heavy, I observed a truck driven by Mr. Shapiro. The car was almost in a crash due to excessive speed. I followed it. It was doing 70 miles an hour."

Maurice A. Caron, Collingwood, who was driving at 65 miles an hour in Whitechurch, was fined $10 and costs.

Constable Kenneth Mount timed six motorists passing through Newmarket. Two, who were going over 50 miles an hour, were fined $10 and costs. They were William Doan, Newmarket, and W. G. McJannett, Toronto.

The other four, who were travelling over 45 miles an hour and were fined $8 and costs, were: W. B. Ledrew, Toronto, Sam Battaglia, Jackson's Point, Canada Bread Co., Toronto, and Acme Farmers' Dairy, Toronto.

Thomas Baker, Toronto, fined $8 and costs was timed by Chief Constable James Sloss.

Fines of $5 were given Anna Sachan, Humbler Bay, and New Toronto Dairy, Toronto. Constable Joseph Jardine clocked Miss Sachan going 40 miles an hour through Queensville. The other two defendants were driving at 50 miles an hour in East Gwillimbury.

For going 43 miles an hour through Aurora, John H. Sonerville, Toronto, was fined $6 and costs.

Franklyn A. Paton, Toronto, and W. Yewer, Islington, were fined $8 each for going over 45 miles an hour and Douglas MacAvella, Hamilton, was fined $5 and costs. Constable Wm. Hill, Sutton, testified.

James Allen, Lansing, was timed by Constable Ronald Watt going 56 miles an hour and was fined $5 and costs.

A charge of driving at 45 miles an hour through Newmarket against Harold Wardell, Queensville, was withdrawn when the defendant, who pleaded guilty, stated that he was on his way to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, with his baby.

His worship gave the Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. "the benefit of the doubt" and dismissed a charge of speeding when Charles Shephard testified that the car in question had been locked in the garage the whole of the day of the alleged offence.

For having faulty brakes on his car, George Rutherford, Schomberg, was fined $10 and costs.

Herbert Neely and Grace Morgue, both of Toronto, were each fined $10 and costs for failing to purchase 1941 operator's licenses.

It Was Tough But Not Tough Enough, Put Your Teeth Into This Week's Contest And See How You Fare

SEE BETTE DAVIS OR ALICE FAYE

Last week's classified contest winners are: Miss Shirley Cass, Newmarket, Alf. Grove, Newmarket, R.H. 3, Mrs. J. E. Gowland, Newmarket, Mrs. Dorothy McCannan, Newmarket, and Mrs. James Stark, Newmarket.

There were 28 correct answers, eight incorrect. The five names above were drawn blind from the 28 correct. The high proportion of Newmarket winners is due to the chance that this week there were 20 Newmarket answers among the 28 correct ones.

Incidentally, one or two of the winners have won before. That again is just due to chance in the final selection. Everyone who submits a correct answer has the same chance, regardless of whether he or she has won before.

Correct answers were: licensed, anyone, reward, woodlot, shoulder, glassware, hardwood, carriage, mower, tricycle. Two or three contestants submitted perfectly good words but overlooked the fact that they must be found in the classified ads.

Now we give you this week's contest. It is not intended to be easy. In fact, this puzzle has been easier to make than it will be to solve. We have taken ten words from the classifieds, dropped the first letter from each and then scrambled the remaining letters, with the following interesting results: dignant, vote, givenn, hont, trieva, pie, ere, guno, moos, drawdoo.

What are the ten words? Five winners (ties to be broken by draw) will receive double passes to the Strand theatre for either Tuesday, July 8, to see Bette Davis and George Brent in "The Great Lie" and Brian Aherne in "The Man Who Lost Himself," or for Thursday, July 10, to see Alice Faye and Jack Oakie in "The Great American Broadcast" and "Strange Alibi."

Answers must reach The Era by 9:30 a.m., D.S.T., Tuesday.

Last week's winners may pick up their double passes at the Strand box office any time for Monday, June 30, or Thursday, July 3.

WANT-ADS

The rate for Want Ads is 25 cents for 25 words for one insertion; 40 cents for two insertions; 50 cents for three insertions. For over 25 words, each additional word, one insertion, one cent, additional insertions, one-half cent per insertion.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Alex. "Red" Mathewson, the Newmarket boy who is with the R.C.A.F. at Borden, is catching for the new air force entry in the O.A.B.A., who play their games at the Barrie fair grounds. The airman are playing a double schedule with the Spencer Foundry team from Penetang. Mathewson performed at centre ice last winter for the fliers too. The Camp Borden team have also booked a series of games with Newmarket training camp, town league hard-balls. So Newmarket will get a glimpse of "Red" in action. Aurora cycling club is still out on this week added three new members in the persons of Bill Heath, George Parker, and Larsen of Newmarket, to their roster.

Nine for the services is the proud record of Offord's lads and if every sporting organization did as well we'd soon have those 32,000 men. The air force has Cliffo Chapman, the club's ace rider, and also Art. Bunn and Bert McGinn.

Dave Judd is an instructor at the North Bay camp and his brother, Donald, is with the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders, along with the Newmarket sultan of swat, Johnny O'Connor. Thomas Raeside is with the 1st Hussars and Frank Bailey is now a jolly tar with the Royal Canadian Navy and Leonard Coupland is with the 1st Irish. Two other members, Bob Benville and Mickey Smith, are with the Yorks in the reserve corps.

Jimmy Cummings, erstwhile captain of the Aurora Tigers, is tossing the softball pill with considerable success this season for Anchors, current leaders in the West Toronto industrial senior group. "Junior" certainly gets around with teams that hit pay-dirt. Vernon Bowen, whom district fans will remember as one of the best of the Barrie Colts forwards, is now located in Oshawa and will do his playing there with the Generals next winter. He was also counted on for a utility position by the Barrie Collegians in the York-Simcoe loop.

M. G. Griffiths, director of athletics, has received a well merited appointment as assistant to Warren Stephens at Toronto Varsity. Griffiths has from Montreal and is a graduate of Columbia and Springfield. Afterwards he taught at O.A.C., Guelph, and played on some of the better Aggies teams of that day. Then he came to St. Andrew's and the success of the red and white "preppers" in recent years bears testimony to the fight and team-play he was able to succeed in instilling in his charges. He has had able assistance, of course, from Harry Davis, Bobby Porter, Charlie Sweeney and others, but he could always fill the bill if any of these stalwarts weren't on hand for their own special sports performance.

Last winter he found time to teach a swimming class of the 1st Aurora Boy Scouts troop. Charlie Sweeney succeeded to the post at the college and he has a tough task to fill Griffiths' shoes. College authorities are confident he can do the trick. Graduation sees Pat. Davis, Gourlay and McVean, back-bone of the rugby and basketball teams leave, along with McPherson, Cobban, Rutter, and Kilmer, other prominent Andrean athletes.

CAMPERS ARE BLAMED FOR 47 BROKEN PANES

When the caretaker of the school went to open the school-house on Monday morning, June 16, she was shocked to see that all but one of the 48 lights of glass in the windows on the west side of the school had been shot through with an air-rifle. It was thought that someone camping in the district over the weekend was responsible.

The young people's meeting was in the charge of Yvonne Grose's group last Wednesday evening. The choruses were led by Bruce Hood and the opening prayer was offered by Mrs. A. Emmerman. The scripture lesson, taken from Dan. 3: 19-20, was read by Gertrude Mitchell.

Messages in song were brought by Lawrence Needler and Lloyd Grose. A sword drill was conducted by Edna Pegg, after which Ralph Forfar delivered a fine message. The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of a hymn and prayer by Lloyd Grose.

Miss Sadie Mulholland has started to work at Shadow Lake. On Wednesday afternoon, June 18, Miss Marjorie Hollidge of Vivian, became the happy bride of Elliott Oldham of Hartman.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lyons and family and Mr. Wm. Hatch of Toronto visited at the home of Mr. John Mitchell on Saturday.

Little Miss Joyce Lyons has been ill for the past few weeks and not able to attend school.

Mr. Peter Karm of Delhi, Ont., was calling on friends in the community on Saturday.

Mrs. W. Ramaka, who has been working in Toronto for several months, was home on Saturday.

Strawberries are a bumper crop in this locality this year. The rain just came in time to save them.

Mr. Ernest Wrightman of Delhi, Ont., was home over the weekend.

Rev. Kingsley Cutler of the army medical corps, Niagara, and Pte. Cyril Cutler of Peta-wawa were home over the weekend.

Davis and Gourlay will be especially missed. Both boys were stand-out performers and to these eyes, at least, were about the nearest basketballers in junior company we have ever seen.

Markham Juniors have found a neat way of keeping the boys together, albeit some of them are over the age limit. They have entered a team in the Markham-Scarboro softball circuit and are present leaders. Ike Harper, the big defenceman, is the receiver, while Vic. McEarg and Austin Baker are on the pitching rubber.

Coach Ernie Lawrie is holding down an outfield berth and doing a bit of timely slugging. Five teams make up the circuit with Markham town, Unionville, Agincourt and Cedar Grove forming the complete loop. Some of the Richmond Hill Roses team, namely Miller, Cochrane and Dykes, are also playing in the group, being hooked up with their native Unionville.

Grant Cook, who played hockey here two seasons ago and caught for the softball club for a while last year, has joined the R.C.A.F. and is at present stationed at the Manning pool, Toronto. Joe McGhee, another of the Tiger team and one of the best local boys ever to wear a junior sweater, reports for duty with the air force on Aug. 28. Joe, meanwhile, is scheduled to do some training at Newmarket camp prior to his call to the sky-warriors.

Alrnuall brought a welcome letter from Floyd "Ace" Yake, former local softballer, who is at Nanaimo, B.C., with the Dufferin-Haldimand Rifles. Ace is playing catcher for the Duffs who have a fine softball team. Most of the boys hail from Toronto and an Indian lad from the Brantford reservation is cutting a wide swath both as a hitter and fielder for the team. They have won three out of four games and if they win the group will proceed on into the Pacific coast playdowns.

Duncan, B.C. were their last victims by a 9-8 score in 11 innings. Bert Tunney, who needs no introduction here, is concerned, sends his regards from the same spot and incidentally mentions Yake is slated to play for the brigade team in Vancouver at a monster field day to be held there later this month. Both boys speak well of west coast weather and B.C. hospitality. But two lads like the "Ace" and Bert are capable of adapting themselves to most conditions and changes.

Brantford Lions will advance to the Junior O.H.A. "A" series next winter having won junior B laurels finally. They will be directly under the redwings of Detroit next season. So now you know on whose reserve list the curly thatched Jimmy Lowe belongs.

Lowe is still in Brantford and will play hockey for them again. He is playing softball with a team in intermediate company and pitching some of the games. As last year he has plenty of speed but lacks control at the mullball game, but in hockey "Gentleman James" lacks very little, as you all know. Tommy Ivanoff will coach the Leafs and what will become of his Guelph, Eltimores is another matter. They are pretty well tied up with Boston Bruins and so won't likely lack for coaching or playing material.

R.C.A.F., stationed at Mountain View, and Eugene Paisley of the R.C.A.F., Camp Borden, were at their homes over the weekend.

Mr. Weir of Mount Albert gospel church was present at the Friday evening prayer meeting and brought the message from Eph. 3, which was much enjoyed.

On Saturday evening the young people of the church attended a social evening at the home of Mr. B. Grose, and spent an enjoyable time playing games and singing choruses, after which refreshments were served.

Mr. Rowan brought a helpful message on Sunday evening. The message was particularly for parents and children. Mr. Rowan contrasted the lives of Saul and Jonathan with those of David and Absalom, a wicked father and a good son, and a good father with an evil son.

Next Sunday evening a group from Toronto plan to be present and bring special music.

VANDORF VANDORF LADY DIES AFTER TWO DAYS ILL

Another of Vandorf's well-known and highly esteemed residents died on Thursday afternoon, June 19, in the person of Mrs. Leslie Preston. She first became ill Tuesday noon, after she ate her dinner. Her husband rushed her to a doctor in Aurora. She was taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Patten, there, where she suffered a stroke and never regained consciousness. Her maiden name was Ethel May Foster.

Mrs. Preston was born on a farm on the fifth concession of Whitechurch, about two miles from her late residence, 59 years ago. Her entire life was spent here.

She was a devoted wife and mother. She was a faithful member of the Salvation Army in Aurora and had attended an Army meeting there on Monday night.

Captain Harris of Aurora conducted the funeral service at the residence on Sunday afternoon, assisted by Rev. T. R. White. A duct, "God's tomorrow will be brighter than today," was impressively sung. The funeral was a large one and interment took place in Pine Orchard cemetery. Six nephews acted as pallbearers. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

To the bereaved husband, her daughters, Mrs. R. Reynolds (Verna) of Sharon, Mrs. Stalibras (Orma) of Oshawa; her sons, Delmer of Vandorf, Elmer of south Yonge St., Aurora, her sisters, Mrs. McKinnon of western Canada, Mrs. Patten of Aurora, and her brother, Albert Foster, of Aurora, deepest sympathy is extended.

Roy King of Toronto, who has had charge of the Vandorf school for the past two years, has resigned and intends completing his course at the University of Toronto next year. Mr. King will not soon be forgotten. He has cheerfully given of his time to the Young People's Union whenever he could. The community extends best wishes.

Miss Ruth Oliver is having her holidays.

Mrs. R. Scott, president, presided at the June meeting of the Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Victor Fines on June 18. R. E. Nicoll of the department of agriculture explained egg-grading. A very lively discussion followed. Mrs. Scott's paper on "Nature's art is inspiring" was very interesting. Betty Preston played a solo on her piano accordion and Dorothy Eade gave a reading. The hostesses served refreshments.

The Deisman reunion was held at Atona Beach on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harmon motored from near Harrisburg, Penn., to meet their Deisman relatives here. They have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bowen of this corner while visiting friends.

Miss Madeline Clark of Richvale is spending some time with her friend, Miss Ethel Ferguson, of Maple Avenue Farm.

The farmers are making hay, and desire dry weather, but the strawberries and gardens need rain badly. The dry weather will shorten the berry crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis (nee Annie Ferguson) returned from their honeymoon trip from beyond North Bay, and later were joyously serenaded by the young people in a charivari party. As Mrs. Curtis is invalided, the party was quiet, but very enjoyable. The newlyweds made their debut at morning service on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson brought Mrs. Atkinson to King with him on Thursday evening and she is visiting this week visiting at Mrs. Gellatly's home and meeting friends of former days.

All roads led to Eaton Hall farm on Thursday evening for the great King Carnival held at Lady Eaton's home here. Cars came in procession from the east, west, south and north. Great buses, filled to capacity, came along with their beautiful green and red lights. It was a great event and the proceeds will boost the funds for war service.

Meantime in Eversley's old stone church, a missionary meeting was in progress. This was the 53rd anniversary of Eversley Women's Missionary Society. Rev. Mr. Atkinson, the present pastor, gave a very interesting address on the work of the church in the Peace River district, telling of the splendid work done by the heroic pioneer deaconesses and of churches being built and congregations organized.

Mrs. Atkinson, an earlier sectional vice-president for this section, was present and very happy to meet with the missionary workers she had met in the earlier years when she and Mr. Atkinson lived in the manse at Queensville. Miss Ferguson, president of the auxiliary, presided. Mrs. Chas. Egan gave the Bible reading. The Mission Band was represented by its little president, Nancy Ball, who sang a sunshine solo. Little Catherine and Violet McKie gave a piano duet and each separately played a piano solo, and Violet sang to her own accompaniment. The junior members of the auxiliary were represented by Ethel Ferguson, who sang a hymn for father's day, "Daddy Dear," to the tune of Danny Boy, with Frances Ross, pianist. Marie Ball told the story of Betsy Lee.

Three sectional vice-presidents were present, in order, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Ransom, now Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. A. McClure. The attendance was small but the program was much enjoyed.

Rev. T. L. Williams and family are home from Cranbrook, B.C., where Mr. Williams was a delegate to the general assembly. They are staying with Mrs. Hollingshead at Kinghorn.

A telegram was received on Sunday night from Los Angeles, Cal., telling of the sudden death of Eldon Cairns from a heart attack. Eldon was the oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Cairns.

He was born on the Humber Hill, Eversley, attended a business college in Toronto and had been home only occasionally since. He leaves his sisters, Jean Cairns of Aurora, and Mrs. Minetta Morning of Snowball, and his only brother, Farren, of King City.

The three churches of the King United circuit held a picnic at Lake Wilcox last Saturday. Following the dinner an address was read by Herbert Ross of Laskay and a presentation of a purse was made by Ernest Carson of Teston and a large basket of flowers by Miss Margaret Kerswill of King was made to Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Davis. The picnic was held instead of a farewell social.

King Y.P.U. played ball with Laskay Y.P.U. on Monday at Laskay. Once again King was victorious by a score of 14 to 4. The game was followed by a social at the church.

TELEPHONE TIPS FROM A FIGHTER PILOT

A fighter pilot must keep 48 basic factors in mind. These are technical flying matters, apart from battle tactics. And he must also remember other things — for instance how to talk on his aircraft telephone; he always speaks clearly and concisely. With telephone lines carrying an extra heavy load directly concerned with Canada's war effort, you can help telephone workers maintain good service by adopting fighter pilot telephone technique.

When your telephone rings, answer promptly, and don't waste time by saying "hello"—instead give your name immediately. Speak distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece, and be sure to replace the receiver on the hook when you have finished your conversation. Your cooperation will help us to provide fast, accurate telephone service for a nation at war.

There are no birthdays to acknowledge this week, but quite a few in the birthday book for July. Get your friends to send in their names for the birthday book.

Well, let's tackle the contest for the week. The correct answer for last week will be found in the story.

THE CONTEST STORY
Detective Sureluck spent a busy 20 minutes decoding the strange message.
"Ah, I have it," he declared at last. "Press third while pulling others."
"That sounds simple," said
Constable No. 677.
"Yes," said the sleuth, "but it tells us that more than one man ordinarily operated this cabinet.
Our friend the Moslem, if indeed this was his domicile, must have had someone with him.
There are three drawers to pull,
and one to press.

"Let me see if I can do it by myself. No, I can't. I can press the third with my knee, but I can pull only two of the others at the same time. Interesting!
Now give me a hand, Doctor!"
Dr. Wiseman pulled the bottom two drawers, while Detective Sureluck pressed the third and pulled the second.

"Stop!" cried the detective as three drawers started to move.
"We can get them all now, but we must be careful. Let's start with the second."

As the second drawer was opened there appeared the clock mechanism which had caused the striking noted when the top drawer was opened.

"The clock had hands after all,"
said No. 81 to No. 677.
"Yes, but no face," said No.
677 to No. 81.

"The clock runs, but the hands are stopped," said Detective Sureluck. "Very interesting.
Observe that they have been running until a matter of hours ago, maybe minutes. Not a particle of dirt has settled on the hands."

He handed his magnifying glass to the fingerprint expert.
"The hands have been stopped by the shock of a tussle in this room," said the detective. "We shall soon determine the exact moment of the crime. Very important."

"But with no face on the clock, how can you tell what time it says?" asked No. 81.
"I can definitely establish this as the top of the clock," said the detective indicating a point on the blank face which was slightly marked. "Those are finger-marks where the clock has been carried, and naturally it would be carried upright, with the fingers grasping it where the 12 should be.

"A point of difficulty arises through both hands being the same length. There is little to indicate which is the hour hand, and which the minute hand. But the information is there, just the same. Observe that the hands are in a position that they make the figure seven.

"Yes, they make a perfect figure seven. One hand is perfectly level, and the other makes the slanted downstroke of the seven.
"To me it is perfectly clear which of those hands is the hour hand."
What time was the crime committed?
(Draw the face of a clock.
Sketch in the figure seven. Two answers will then suggest themselves.

Those who were not present on Friday evening to hear the Jarvis
St., Toronto, church choir, missed a real treat. There was a male quartet, duets, and solos, and a little chap, about six years old, sang and quoted scripture very cleverly.

The attendance on Sunday evening was not as large as usual but the pastor gave a nice message and Miss Helen Kennedy and Murray Kennedy sang a duet.

The young people will meet on Wednesday evening and prayer meeting will be held on Thursday evening at 8 p.m., S.T.

The Sunday-school picnic will be held on July 17, at Jackson's Point.

BALDWIN
Elm Grove Institute
Gives Red Cross $50

Baldwin, June 19.—The ladies of Elm Grove Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Percy Brown for their June meeting.
Miss Irene Rose, 3rd vice-president, presided.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Institute Ode and repeating the Institute Creed, followed by the roll-call, answered by "My Golden Saying."

"Peace Education" was the topic for the day, and the convenors were Misses Irene Rose and Audrey Owen. A very interesting paper had been prepared by them and it was read by Miss Owen. One of the main thoughts given was "There cannot be peace in the world if there is not peace at home."

Two readings were given by Mrs. Thomas Comer and Miss Mary Tomlinson.

Miss Irene Rose then read a very touching poem, entitled
"England Shall Be Dearest."

One of the happenings of the day which was looked forward to with great anticipation by the people of the community was the draw for the quilt which the members had sold tickets on.

Mrs. Hamilton, Sr., drew the lucky ticket and Mrs. J. O. Wilson of Toronto was the winner.

Community singing followed, with Mrs. Murray Munro at the piano. The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King." Lunch was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. Hamilton and Mrs. E. Hamilton.

A garden tea and white elephant sale was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pringle of Baldwin on Tuesday, June 10, under the sponsorship of Elm Grove Women's Institute.

Union Jacks and gay bunting lent a patriotic touch to the affair. Lunch was served on the lawn by the members of the Institute. Mrs. Bouchier Anderson poured tea.

Attractions of the afternoon were tea-cup reading, a sale of home-baking, two lucky draws,
the sale of peonies and plants and a white elephant sale. All of these things were made possible by the willing co-operation of the community.

The proceeds, which amounted to $50, were donated to the Red Cross for hospital war supplies.

Mrs. Wm. Dunn, in Newmarket.
Sports day is being held in Zeaphyr community park on Saturday, June 28. The program is

Protested As Zephyr Star

SHARON LODGES PROTEST AGAINST TALENTED
ATHLETE

Although Zephyr beat Sharon 8-1 in a softball game at Sharon on Tuesday night, the Sharon team is protesting the game because Zephyr used "Joint" McComb, Newmarket boy, as pitcher. Sharon contends that McComb was ineligible to play since he is not a resident of Zephyr.

With McComb doing fine work on the mound, Zephyr put up a good game of baseball and deserved the win. Arnold, Sedore and McComb scored in the first, Locke and Pickering in the fifth, and Arnold, Rynard and Lunney in the seventh inning. Rynard's was a home run. Ganton scored the only Sharon run.

Don. Glover was knocked from the Sharon pitching mound in the first inning and Ganton took his place and pitched the rest of the game. Arnold, McComb and Rynard played stand-out games for Zephyr.

Zephyr had a good chance of winning the game without McComb's services since Sharon was off the bit and, if the protest is allowed, it will prove to have been a bad move in sticking McComb on the mound.

FORMER REEVE OF EAST
GWILLIMBURY DIES, 89

Benjamin Kiteley, formerly a justice of the peace and a reeve of East Gwillimbury township, died in Toronto recently in his 90th year. The only survivor is a daughter, Miss Jennie May Kiteley of Toronto.

Mr. Kiteley was born in Sharon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kiteley. He farmed in that district and was also a veterinary surgeon. He moved from Sharon to Welland, where he ran a hardware store. He moved from there to Toronto 32 years ago. He was a member of the Christian church in Newmarket and was a Free Mason.

In 1874, Mr. Kiteley married Elma Loucretia Evans of Queensville, who predeceased him six years ago. Of pioneer Quaker stock, Mr. Kiteley led a busy and active life. He was a "Grit" all his life. Interment was made in Newmarket cemetery.

NORTH GWILLIMBURY
TWO DAYS WORK DRIVE
PRODUCES RESULTS

Success crowned the two days of quilting and sewing held under the auspices of North Gwillimbury branch of the Red Cross Society in Belhaven hall on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, 60 and 67 respectively registering on the two days.

The following articles were made: 12 quilts, ten pairs pyjamas, four dressing-gowns, besides three very beautiful quilts. Two, previously made, were donated, one by Mrs. Robt. Davidson, Mount Pleasant, and one by Mrs. Blizard, through her daughter, Mrs. Rose of Ravenshoe. The third, donated in its entirety and made by Mrs. Joseph Wilkinson, was quilted at the hall but is to be sold later to raise more funds. This quilt is delicately colored in pastel shades of orchid, etc., spool pattern.

The children from Baseline school had quilted a smaller one and several dresses made by the children were also contributed. The pot-luck lunch served each day and also afternoon tea, in the basement of the hall, were very much enjoyed by the hard-working ladies. The social side of the occasion was one of the many benefits derived from this first township work drive.

The president, Mrs. Wm. Vail, and Mrs. W. R. Fisher, convenor of work for the township, were most grateful to all who in any way helped make this attempt at full co-operation so successful. On July 22 and 23 similar work days are to be held.

To those who braved the extreme heat of last Friday evening to attend the presentation of the English pastoral opera, "Little Boy Blue," by pupils and former pupils of Rosedale public school, Toronto, given under the auspices of North Gwillimbury Red Cross, it was an evening of real pleasure, but unfortunately the attendance was very poor, which was deeply regretted by the conveners, Mr. and Mrs. W. Davidson and members of the executive, as there had been considerable work in connection with the event, such as transportation of the cast, scenery, etc.

The effort, however, of Toronto friends was much appreciated. All members of the cast gave an excellent account of themselves. Five of the cast were war guests from England. One could not help but think when at the conclusion they sang "There'll always be an England," how much that song meant to those young folks, so far away from parents and home, standing there, so quaintly frocked, around the may pole, in the peaceful quiet of an Ontario summer night, in a country community hall, far removed from all danger of what that clear night could bring to their loved ones across the sea, in their dear England!

There is an interesting story in connection with this opera. Some years ago Mrs. D. H. Bissell of Toronto and Orchard Beach was "Boy Blue." Later on, her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Smith, took the same part and now at this present time, Mrs. Smith has been one of the main organizers of the enthusiastic cast, her own daughter taking part, and Mr. Smith being stage manager. The stage was most attractively arranged.

The music was under the very capable leadership of Mrs. Wm. Hackett, who carried on beautifully despite a poorly lighted piano. The directors, Miss Jessie Hancock, and Miss Ellen E. Cubitt, A.T.C.M., are deserving of great praise for this very worthwhile production, which was given twice recently in Toronto, and was well received.

Proceeds were for war work. Mrs. W. H. Bissell was in charge of properties. Several others assisted in transportation, etc.

Earlier in the afternoon the children had been entertained at a picnic tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bissell, Orchard Beach. Cousins Dairy kindly contributed chocolate drink for the party.

DIES IN RAVENSHOE
AFTER LONG LIFE

Funeral services were held in Queensville United church on Friday for the late Liza Ann Cole who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ambrose Travis, in Ravenshoe last Wednesday after an illness of six months. She was in her 80th year. Mrs. Cole was of a pleasant disposition and actively interested in church work.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Crouth, she married John A. Cole, who predeceased her in August, 1940. The late Mr. and Mrs. Cole farmed in this district for many years.

Besides Mrs. Travis, one brother, John Crouth, Brownhill, a sister, Mrs. Emma McTague, Newmarket, two grandchildren and six great-grandchildren survive.

Palbearers were Edward Cole, Willard Cole, Mervin Rutledge, Stanley Eves, Peter Arnold and John Kellington. Rev. Hugh Shannon conducted the funeral service. Interment was made in Queensville cemetery.

MEN IN KHAKI DEFEAT
OFFICE SPECIALTY

The Military Camp continued its winning way by overshadowing the Office Specialty ten runs to four in a hardball game last Thursday. The Specialty collected nine hits to the camp's eight but couldn't pack the runners home.

The camp got enough runs in the first inning to win the game. Five runners crossed the plate largely because of bad plays by the officemen.

Gill and Jones pitched for the army and Jim Hooper for the Office Specialty. Pete Neufeldt got two hits and a run, Hooper and Vanden Bergh got two hits.

MILITIA RUNS AWAY
WITH 22-5 VICTORY

Li'l Abner would have called it "confoozin' but amoozin." The way the Military Camp licked the Davis Leather hardball entry by 22 runs to five on Monday night was all of that.

The Davismen muffed so many balls, however, that to them it was not so amusing. One run in the second inning, two in the third, seven in the fourth and 12 in the fifth were scored by the camp and in the sixth they decided to call it a well-spent night and batted out in order.

Everything went along serenely during the first three innings of snappy baseball and then Davis Leather began using their boots instead of their hands and kicked the ball all over. However, many of the camp hits were clean and hard to reach. Bunker, their shortstop, knocked one well over the fence in the fifth for the only homer of the game.

Bob Peters started on the mound for the tannery and after a bad third and fourth innings was replaced by Fred Lusted, who was given little mercy and Peters came back to finish off the game.

"Shorty" Turan and Jack Wright played a worthwhile game for the tannery. The campmen were all good.

Davis Leather got a bad game out of their system and should improve from now on.

This was the camp's fourth win without a loss.

THE "CLIP-CUT" SELF-BALANCED MOWER
and what it will do in your hay fields. Your weight, alone, takes the weight off the horses' necks

Make this mower balance test: Put a man on the seat of the Oliver "Clip-Cut" Mower. Then lift the tongue. You'll do it without effort with one hand—then make the same test on any mower with gears mounted in front of the axle and see the difference. Your weight balances the Oliver "Clip-Cut." Your weight is all that's needed to take the weight off the horses' necks.

And that means as much comfort to you as it does to the horses. You ride in comfort and quiet on the smooth running, easy riding, light draft Oliver "Clip-Cut" Mower. With more knife sections and guards spaced 2 1/2" apart, taking faster, smaller bites, the "Clip-Cut" mows all crops easier and faster.

The 4-square frame holds the bar squarely to its work, makes the Oliver Mower free from tongue slap, and the gear mounting back of the solid one-piece axle produces the balance that takes the weight off the horses' necks. Together they keep your horses free from sore necks. All gears are completely enclosed running in oil, and there is one less gear in the Oliver, still further reducing draft. Come in and let us show you how well it meets the needs of this territory.
